Evolution of the Tax System in India

Organized by Department of Economics, Kalyani Mahavidyalaya

Date: 26/05/2022, Thursday

Venue: Room No. -306,

Kalyani Mahavidyalaya

Department of Economics, Kalyani Mahavidyalaya organized a one-day inter-departmental seminar on 'Evolution of Tax System in India' on 26th May, 2022, Thursday at room No-306 of Kalyani Mahavidyalaya.

Importance of this Seminar & the Target Groups:

Tax system in India is an important topic in the ambit of undergraduate courses of both Economics and B. Com Honours. Moreover, this topic has immense relevance for different competitive examinations. Keeping this in mind, Department of Economics organized this seminar for the students of Economics and B.Com Honors courses of this college.

Organization of academic seminars and workshops is the best practice of this department. We consider such seminars as one of the most effective student-centric as well as innovative method of learning because such seminars opens up the vision of students beyond the boundary of the course curriculum.

After lock-down period of two long years of Covid pandemic situation, this type of event was a really required step to bring back our students in normal flow of the regular departmental activities. In our journey we received best wishes, support and encouragement from our respected Principal, Dr. Runu Das. Department of Economics duly acknowledge the spontaneous cooperation from Department of Commerce for successful accomplishment of this event.

About the Seminar:

The decision regarding organization of this event was taken in the departmental committee meeting held on 16.05.2022 and application was sent to Seminar Committee for approval of the Principal Madam.

The seminar started with the inaugural address by our respected Principal, Dr. Runu Das madam. She wished all the success for this endeavor of the department in this respect.

Dr. Manoj Sharma, Associate Professor, Department of Commerce and Sri Pintu Das, In-Charge, Department of Commerce delivered lectures as resource persons.

In the beginning, Dr. Mausumi Datta Biswas, convener, Departmental Seminar discussed the importance of tax system of a nation.

Sri Pintu Das delivered his valuable lecture on evolution of Indian tax system since ancient, medieval period to modern era. He also discussed the present tax slabs of direct tax in India. Dr. Manoj Sharma discussed on Goods and Service tax which is one of the most important issues of the present tax system of India.

Smt. Arundhati Mukherjee, In-charge, Department of Economics presented the summary of the discussion and this was followed by the interactive session and

Vote of thanks was given by Dr. Mausumi Datta Biswas. Department of Economics acknowledges sincere gratitude to respected Principal Madam, for her support and encouragement, we are also thankful to the teachers of Department of Commerce for their co-operation since beginning. We express our sincere thanks to our esteemed colleges of different departments for making our effort successful. We are grateful to all our non-teaching staffs for providing us the necessary support for successful organization of this event. Last but not the least we are also thankful to students of both the departments for their enthusiasm and interest for this seminar.

Seminar Outcome:

Fifty Students of Economics and BCom Honours attended this Seminar.

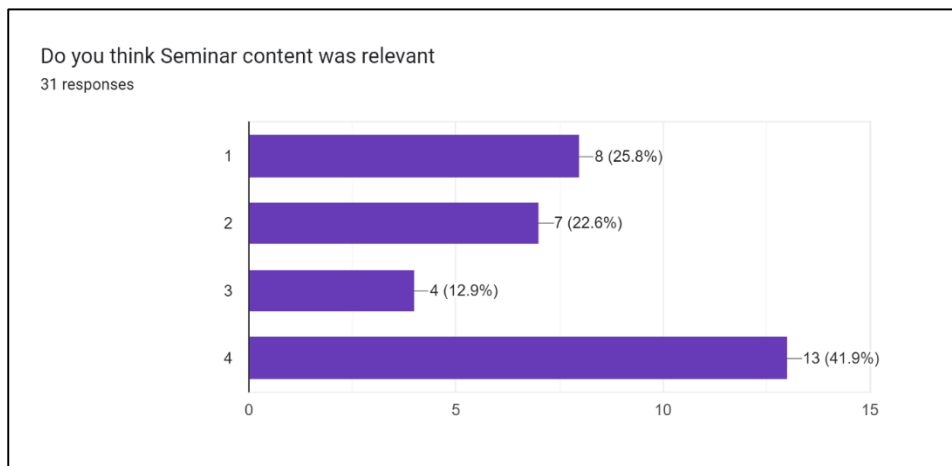

Teachers of both the concerned departments as well as teachers from other departments participated in this seminar.

Most of the students attended the seminar considered that the seminar was beneficial for them, and all wanted organization of such events in future.
